Dear Sir/Madam:

On the afternoon of October 16, 2007, the EFS-Web system went down and we had to file an amendment, affidavit, and extension of time for the above-referenced patent application manually. After mailing the submission, we realized that the date on the correspondence was wrong and needed to be correct to make the statutory deadline. We then filed again in an abundance of care with a cover letter to disregard the first correspondence as well as any authorization therein to charge our Deposit Account for the extension fees. (See attached letter.) Nevertheless, our Deposit Account (#04-1679) was charged $525.00 twice which is in excess of that required.

Please refund our Deposit Account (#04-1679) the overpayment of $525.00 at your earliest convenience. If you need further clarification, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Very truly yours,

Joseph A. Powers

Dear Sirs:

On October 16, 2007, Applicants filed a response to the April 17, 2007 official action by first-class mail. It has come to the Applicants' attention that the incorrect date was typed on the Transmittal Form in the attorney's signature section and, on the Certificate of Transmission/Mailing, the wrong date of transmission was typed and printed. Being that the statutory deadline for responding to the outstanding action is October 17, 2007, and in an abundance of caution, Applicants' have refiled this response electronically. Please disregard the response submitted by first-class mail on October 16, 2007 as well as any authorization therein to charge our Deposit Account for the extension fees.

Please do not hesitate to contact the undersigned if you have any questions regarding this letter.

Very truly yours,

Joseph A. Powers
